Unheard Struggles of Medical Residents – A Temporary Burnout or Depression.

This phase of COVID 19 is a phase of turmoil in the Medical Residents’ lives. It is already a known fact that Residency of a Medical Postgraduate student is the toughest phase in a doctor’s career. To add to their miseries came COVID-19 and along with it came the baggage of longer working hours, high risk patients, lesser opportunity of handling cases other than COVID-19 and to top it all, late admissions leading to more burden on existing batches. A burn out is the natural outcome.

The alumni Association NKP Salve Institute of Medical Sciences & Research Centre and Lata Mangeshkar Hospital, Digdoh Hills, Nagpur aptly organized a lecture and an open forum for discussion, on burnout/depression in Medical Residents. The speaker was a PG alumnus and now a renowned Psychiatrist in Nagpur Dr.Pritam Chandak. His talk explicitly covered the causes and different ways of dealing with depression. Dr. Vilas Thombre, Vice Dean (Academic); Dr. Nitin Deosthale, Vice Dean (Clinical) and Dr.Sushil Gawande, Prof. of Psychiatry congratulated Dr. Pritam Chandak for the presentation.
