Basics in Nuclear Medicine & Advances in Nuclear Cardiology

24th February 2025

Alumni association, NKP Salve Institute of medical Sciences & Research Centre and Lata Mangeshkar Hospital organized a lecture by our Alumnus of 1990 batch, Dr. Kshama Wechalekar, MBBS, DRM, DNB (Nuclear Medicine), FASNC (USA). Dr Kshama Wechalekar leads the department of Nuclear Medicine department at Royal Brompton Hospital, London, UK since 2011 and PET service at Specialist Care at RBH & HH at Wimpole Street diagnostic centre from June 2016. She is an honorary Senior Lecturer at NHLI, Imperial College. She is past President of British Nuclear Cardiology Society and served on the Imaging council of BCS. She is current council member for British nuclear medicine society. She currently chairs the nuclear medicine group under Kings Health Partners.

Dr. Kshama delivered a lecture on “Basics in Nuclear Medicine & Advances in Nuclear Cardiology” on 24th February 2025. She spoke about Rubidium myocardial perfusion imaging and FDG PET scans used for infection, inflammation, and cancer. She also presented various case scenarios.

All the post graduate students attended the lecture. Dr Mohana Majumdar, Treasurer, Alumni Association, welcomed the gathering. Dr Sajal Mitra, Dean NKPSIMS & RC and LMH, expressed the pride and joy of witnessing our alumni positioned at important international platforms. Dr Kajal Mitra, Director Academics & Accreditation appreciated the alumni association for arranging the lecture and motivating students to opt for lesser-known specialities like nuclear medicine. Dr Arti Kasurkar proposed the vote of thanks.
